

RESEARCH INCENTIVES
RESEARCH & DEVELOPMENT CELL

The Research and Consultancy Cell has introduced the monetary incentive scheme for faculty publishing their research articles since 2017. These incentives are designed to alleviate some of the minor expenses that faculty members incur during the preparation of their research papers. The financial incentives are intended for research articles and book chapters published. Under the old Research and Consultancy Cell, the amount of financial support to the faculty is as follows:

Sl No.	Year	Amount (INR)
1	2021 - 2022	114500
2	2020	84251
3	2019	88758
4	2018	120750
5	2017	113000

The establishment of the Research and Development Cell in 2022 marked a significant advancement in this area by increasing the monetary incentives for faculty publications in reputed journals and books compared to previous years, thereby recognizing and rewarding their scholarly contributions. Additionally, a new financial incentive was introduced for faculty who secured national or international research projects from various funding agencies. The total amount spent on Research Incentives in 2023 is as follows:

Sl No.	Year	Amount (INR)
1	2023	88000

The Research incentives, promotes a culture of academic excellence within the institution. Faculty members are motivated to pursue innovative research, contributing to the body of knowledge in their respective fields. Moreover, the support provided by the Research and Development Cell helps in increasing the visibility and impact of the college's research output on national and international platforms. This, in turn, enhances the institution's reputation as a center of academic and research excellence, attracting potential collaborations, funding opportunities, and high-caliber students and faculty members.
